LINES ON THE DEATH OF COMMODORE BARRY, BY MICHAEL FORTUNE.

Columbia's Friend! freed from this worldly Coil,
Now rests (so Heav'n ordains) from human toil;
A Patriot firm, thro' chequer'd life unblam'd,
A gallant Vet'ran, for his prowess fam'd.

Beneath his Guidance, Lo! a Navy springs,
An infant Navy spreads its canvas wings;
A rising Nation's Wealth, to shield, to save,
And guard her Commerce on the dangerous Wave.

Whoe'er the Sage, his Character shall scan!
Myself trace those Virtues that exalt the man,
The bold achievement and heroic deed—
To Honor's fame the laurel'd Brave that lead!

Long, for his Merits and unsully'd name,
(Dear to his friends and sanctifi'd by fame)
His clay cold Relics shall his Country mourn
And with her tears bedew his hallow'd Urn.

Come cheering Hope, celestial Cherub come!
Say, that his Virtues soar beyond the Tomb;
Say, that with Mercy, in ethereal Guise,
His white robed spirit climbs yon op'ning Skies.

FROM THE PORT FOLIO.

THE LAY PREACHER.

"The fashion of this world passeth away."

As I am only a Lay Preacher, it must not be expected that I should always exhibit that accuracy of sermonizing, which characterises the settled Pastor. But having observed, in the course of a long and regular attendance of public worship, that divines are in the habit of dividing their matter, and of adjourning, sometimes, the morning exhortation till after dinner, I thought it expedient when I selected the fruitful theme of last week's meditation, to reserve part of its topics till now. For during the process of critically examining my subject in all lights, I found that fashion regulated speculation no less than practice, and that opinions as well as dresses, had their times and seasons. As we are told by a profound reasoner, that as there is but one sun in the natural, so there can be but one truth in the intellectual world; an abstract metaphysician in his cell, would suppose, that, by this time, one truth was discovered, and, hence, necessarily, induced uniformity of thinking. But this is a mere reverie of a novice in the history of man. In theology, in the healing art, in politics, in the fine arts, and in mere polite literature, in whatever interests, in whatever amuses our species, perpetual vicissitudes occur, and what is supposed to be settled by one party, at one time, is unhinged by different theories at another.

In the infancy of the colony at Plymouth, and at the erection of the Saybrook platform, our emigrant forefathers rejected with loathing, the fat luxury of Luther, and starved themselves on the mean fare of Calvin. They were doubtful even of scriptural truth, if it had issued from the Clarendon press, and would not read the sermon on the mount to edification, unless imprinted in a Bible at Geneva. Willard's body of divinity was their law and testimony, and reprobate was that sinner, who would adventure to read and practise a more gentle and generous system.

But such heavy and clanking fetters of the mind were too irksome to be long worn patiently by freethinkers, and infant catholicism, in its cradle, at length ventured innovation. Good works were sometimes associated with implicit faith, and the piety of our primitive Christians was not always horror struck at the union. In process of time the reign of rigor declined, and now it may be said the high prerogative of superstition has become as nugatory as kingly power in France. For a new dictator in divinity, who knew not Calvin, arose, and Chauncy considering brimstone as a Scottish or an old wife's fable, proclaimed salvation to all men, and insisted that a profligate should not be eternally singed for his sins. Hume and Bolingbroke, with elegance and elaboration, but with the darkest sophistry, and Boulanger, an audacious Frenchman, in his 'Christianity Unveiled,' have presumptuously attempted to sap the Christian's fortress, and now to represent the son of Mary as a mere man, and now as an imposter. These writings have induced flimsy opinions, called from their nature, deistical, to predominate, and their professors, far from consulting the editions, either of England or Geneva, will inspect no bible.

Perhaps the accurate reader will pronounce my enumeration incomplete, unless I notice that second edition of Tom Thumb's folio, called 'the Age of Reason.' But as this in mechanic's phrase, is but a bungling vamp of absolute infidelity, written by a drunken author, rarely quoted, except by the lowest vulgar, and then in the lisping accents of intoxication, I will not descend to an analysis, but determine this head of my discourse with the warmest wishes, that in spite of jarring opinions, Gospel charity and benevolence, may be, everlasting, fashionable, and that men will not expect a more excellent mode from the new fangled looms of Paine and of Paris.

Physic has experienced more revolutions than Poland, or even France, since the Capitalists are no more. Berhave has prescribed at Leyden, what Brown would reject at Edinburgh. Gout must be pampered, according to one physician, and starved by another. The small pox, like Sancho Panza, is sometimes blanketed into submission, and sometimes every wintry wind must be invoked to blow the infection away.—Dr. Cheyne insists that his patients shall quaff a perpetual bowl of milk, while a more jolly physician directs as perpetual and much redder draughts. Le Sage's San-grado drained every vein, and now every vein must be inflated like a bladder. Cullen departed from Berhave, Brown has exposed and abused the heresy of Cullen, and probably, by this time, some European projector has started a new theory, to the utter destruction of the old.

A logician, considering the two subjects, as equally variable, would infallibly class weather cocks and politics together. We behold vast empires sometimes governed by a solitary woman—and petty states headed by a mob of rulers. Kings, once ranked with gods, are suddenly and capriciously degraded among felons. Government, as a nervous writer expresses it, is sometimes scandalously relaxed, and then violently stretched beyond its tone. The Corinthian capital of society, laboriously erected by aristocratical artists, is prostrated by popular fury in an hour. In our own country, political modes are perpetually fluctuating. Prior to the formation of French friendship, that people, their religion, and their politics, were equally detested. The Pope was antichrist, the French king his high steward, the government of France was the archtype of Turkish despotism, and the nation viewed as a motley collection of coxcombs and slaves. Mark the instant operation of a single defeat, on the whole political sense of America! A captured Burgoyne could metamorphose an arbitrary Lewis into the friend, the patron of republicans. But the love towards Lewis is soon waxed cold, and Marat had his proselytes here as well as at Paris.

Very suddenly have most of our political fashions past away. Britain has been called a mother, a hag, a sister, or a fiend. Our rulers, are perpetually wrangling concerning the garb of government. Some, from Geneva or Virginia, affect the broad mantle of republicanism, which covers a multitude of sins. Others prefer French manufacture of the Paris cut. A few, perhaps, wish to import materials from England, but there is a good warm, well made, easy garment, made to fit any one, called FEDERALISM, which the Lay Preacher actually prefers to his canonicals, and prays may be constantly worn, and an unchangeable mode.

From the Pittsburg Gazette.

COLONEL BUTLER.

This officer, was among the first of his countrymen, that appeared in arms and in uniform, in the militia of Pennsylvania, at the commencement of the revolution; and when troops were raised to compose a regular army, he was commissioned, first as a subaltern, and afterwards as a captain in the 2d Pennsylvania regiment.

In 1780, among five brothers then in actual service, it became his lot to retire from the field, to afford that aid and protection due to his infirm and aged parents.

In 1791, when our frontiers were harassed by an Indian war, having the command of a battalion offered to him, he quitted his family and farm, and accepted that appointment.

On the memorable 4th of November, having led his battalion to the charge, he received a wound in the leg—this being dressed, he again advanced to the charge, and fell, having the same leg broken by a rifle ball. To an officer less brave, the first wound might have been a sufficient apology for withdrawing from the scene of immediate action—this he in both instances declined, and daring to perform an action more heroic than any recorded in the annals of our country, being placed on horseback with his shattered limb, a third time faced the enemy, and aided in making that impression, which enabled the remains of our unfortunate army, to attempt and effect its retreat.

This conspicuous act of valor added lustre to a character, respected in civil life, and highly esteemed in the army. By regular promotion, he is on the present establishment, second in command.

To the astonishment of the people in this quarter, who remember his services and appreciate his merits, they are informed, that Colonel Butler has lately been arrested, and ordered to Frederick Town, Maryland, to be tried on charges exhibited from the war office.

Uniformly attached to the character and principles of Washington, Col. Butler has readily pursued one course. Trimming not with the times, he declined to trim his war-worn locks, down to that laconic standard which a dull fancy suggested, and which caprice prescribed. Has this been cause of offence?

Is his arrest necessary to make way for some favorite minion?

Or is it part of a system, which denounces every man, however meritorious, who does not profess to belong to the present ruling sect? A system by which the renegado of yesterday is elevated, and the revolutionary patriot depressed? Which prefers a sword of wood to one of steel? That system which displaced the valiant Miller, and provides for the coward Lyon? Which put down the honorable Giles,* and put up the scoundrel Cox?

If that is the case, (such is known to be the integrity, and high sense of honor, possessed by the gentlemen of the army generally) it is believed to be impossible to form a court martial, that would bend to such views. Nor would the secretary of war, himself a soldier, be the voluntary instrument, on any trivial pretext, to lend his aid in depressing merit so generally acknowledged.

Dr. HAMILTON's ELIXIR,
A sovereign remedy for Colds, Obstruate Coughs, Asthma, Catarrhs, Sore Throats, and Approaching Consumption.

To parents who may have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH.

This discovery is of the first magnitude, as it is an immediate relief, checks the prorefs, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which child-rear are liable—the Elixir is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

From LUTHER MARTIN, Esq. Attorney General of the State of Maryland.

Gentlemen,
I comply with your request in stating my opinion of Hamilton's Elixir. It has been used in my family for two or three years past, with uniform success, whenever colds, coughs, or similar complaints have rendered medicine necessary. I have myself found it an excellent and agreeable remedy for a very painful and troublesome affection of the breast, accompanied with foreheads and with obstructed and difficult breathing.

On these accounts I do not hesitate to recommend Hamilton's Elixir, as a valuable medicine, and deserving public attention.

LUTHER MARTIN.

Mr. Abijah Henly, Bridge-Street, Baltimore, was cured by one bottle of Hamilton's Elixir of a very complicated disorder, occasioned by a severe cold caught several months ago. He breathed with the greatest difficulty, and was often thrown into weakening sweats when he attempted to walk any distance, and his voice would frequently fail in such a degree that he could only attempt to whisper; he has been upwards of six weeks without a return of his complaints, and desires to give this public testimony in favour of this invaluable medicine.

Dr. Hamilton's

GRAND RESTORATIVE,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine, for the speedy relief and permanent cure of the various complaints which result from dilated piatures—juvenile indiscretions—reliance in climates unfavourable to the constitution—the immoderate use of tea, frequent intoxication, or any other destructive intemperance—the unkindly or excessive use of mercury—the diseases peculiar to females, at a certain period of life—bad living, &c. &c.

And is proved by long and extensive experience to be absolutely unparalleled in the cure of Nervous disorders, Violent cramps in the stomach and back, Indigestion, Melancholy, Gout in the stomach, Pains in the limbs, Relaxations, Involuntary emissions, Obstinate gouts, Impotency, &c. &c. Barrenness,

In cases of extremity, where the long prevalence and obstinacy of disease has brought on a general impoverishment of the system, excessive debility of the whole frame, and a wasting of the flesh, which no nourishment or cordial could repair a perseverance in the use of this medicine has performed the most astonishing cures.

HAMILTON's ESSENCE and EXTRACT of MUSTARD,

A safe and efficacious remedy for gout, rheumatism, palsies, sprains, bruises, pains in the face and neck, &c. And has performed more cures in the above complaints than all the other medicines ever before made public.

From Dr. Weatherburn,
Wythe county, Virginia.

Gentlemen,
I purchased at your shop the preparations you call Hamilton's Essence, or Extract of Mustard, which I believe has perfectly removed a chronic rheumatism (of that kind named sciatica, or of the hip joint) under which I had laboured for a long time, and which had baffled every article in the Materia Medica, and every mode of treatment received into practice for the cure of this obstinate disease. If you think this letter useful you are at liberty to make it public.

Yours, &c.

P. WEATHERBURN.

John Hoover, rope maker, South Second Street, between Mary and Christian Streets, Philadelphia, voluntarily makes oath as follows: namely, that his wife, Mary Hoover, was so severely afflicted with a violent rheumatism, very dangerously situated, the consequence of a severe cold after lying in, as to be confined to her bed for several weeks, and was at length reduced to a cripple for life, notwithstanding the most respectable medical advice was followed, and every probable remedy attempted: when seeing several cases of cures performed by Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard, they were purchased from Mr. Burch, No. 17, South Second Street. The first application enabled her to walk across the room, and the use of one bottle restored her to her usual state of health and strength.

JOHN HOOVER.

HAMILTON's

WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have within four years past cured upwards of one hundred and twenty thousand persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever of similar titles, so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary, particular a excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution; contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady, or the tenderest infant a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. They are particularly efficacious in carrying off all sorts of humours and eruptions; feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on such occasions.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz. the Terz or large round worm, the Acalides, or small maw worm, the Cucurbita, or short, flat, white worm, and lastly, the Lana, or tape worm, so called from its resemblance to tape; this is often many yards long, and is full of joints—it is most hurtful, and most difficult to cure.

Among the symptoms attending worms, are disagreeable breath, especially in the morning—Bad and corrupting gums—Itching in the nose and about the seat—Convulsions and epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech—Starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep—Irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious—Purging, with flinty and hard stools—Vomiting—Large and hard belly—Pains and sickness at the stomach—Pains in the head and thighs, with lowness of spirits—Slow fever, with small and irregular pulse—A dry cough—Excessive thirst—Sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to HAMILTON's WOMEN DESTROYING LOZENGES, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of children, a dreadful disorder which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our cities. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

CASES OF CURES—by Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges.

(Selected from thousands) the authenticity of which any person may ascertain, either by letter or personal application.

TAPE WORM.

Mr. SAMUEL FULLER, Inn-keeper, on the Hartford road, ten miles from Baltimore, began about 20 months ago to grievously afflict with a tape worm, which increased fast in size and strength, so as to excite the most horrid sensations by its writhing motions and intolerable pains, resembling the gnawing and tearing of his bowels, which deprived him of his necessary sleep, and caused such dreadful apprehensions as cannot be conceived but by one in a similar situation—his appetite wasted rapidly, and with that his strength, so that he was unable to attend to any business—when he heard of some excellent cures performed by Hamilton's worm lozenges, he took a large dose, which brought away about FOUR YARDS of the worm (now in the possession of Lee & Co.)—but a renewal of his pains soon convinced him that this monstrous reptile had recovered its first vigour—Application was made to Lee & Co. for more of their medicine, with their advice—from which resulted the total expulsion of his formidable enemy, in several pieces, which he supposed to be SIX OR EIGHT YARDS more. A few months have since elapsed, and Mr. Fuller is now in perfect health. The above facts are well known to a numerous circle of his neighbours, and himself will gratify any who may wish to make further inquiries on the subject. Although Hamilton's worm lozenges produce such powerful effects, when necessary, yet they are perfectly innocent and mild in their operation on the human body, even taken in large doses, as Mr. Fuller will testify—their particular mildness is abundantly evident in innumerable cures of infants.

Communicated by Dr. John Spangler, Yorktown, Pennsylvania.

Letter from the reverend Mr. JOHN MOLTHER, minister of the Moravian church, in York-town.

YORK, January 4th, 1802.

Dear Sir,
Dr. Hamilton's lozenges have been recommended to me as a very adequate means for the cure of children afflicted with worms. I procured a box for the use of my family, to try whether by means of this medicine, I might be enabled to gain a point, which, to accomplish, different other means had proved abortive. My eldest boy had a very sickly appearance, was very restless at night, grew leaner from time to time; in short, he seemed to be in a precarious state of health, which would yield to none of the medicines administered, until I gave him two doses of lozenges, agreeably to the directions, which carried off a substance to all appearance a mere mucus but upon close inspection quite repelled with very small living animals. Not one of that sort of worms which usually afflict children came from him. Since that period he grew remarkably better in health and though lean, has got a fresh and lively complexion. Upon different occasions I have used this medicine as a purging substitute, and found it answer exceedingly well, without bringing on belly-ache, or any of those disagreeable sensations, so often occasioned by purging medicines. Upon the which I judge this medicine to be, besides its main object, one of the most salutary means for restoring lost appetite, and promoting a proper state of digestion, by carrying off that bilious substance, which engenders so much indigestion both among children and adults.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN MOLTHER.
